

Stephanie Trager, Esq.

Chief Catalyst at Intentional Paradigms, LLC, Stephanie leverages 25 years of combined expertise in executive coaching, business consulting, strategic advising, leadership development, corporate responsibility, and a career in law to help senior leaders, general counsel and sustainability executives unleash their full potential and advance their leadership influence.

She's a consummate dot connector, highly intuitive and brings a holistic approach to help her client's unlock purpose and create meaningful impact.

Stephanie brings an out-of-the-box perspective that expands possibility, leverages opportunity and drives leadership confidence, speed and effectiveness. Her approach to transformation and growth encompasses the art, the science and the way of conscious leadership which includes looking at the whole person and building resilience, emotional intelligence, personal responsibility, strategic thinking and advanced interpersonal communication skills.

Stephanie is uniquely positioned to understand her client's challenges. They appreciate her diverse skill set including her business and legal problem-solving acumen plus subject matter expertise in addressing their pressing demands around the rapid speed of disruption in technology, sustainability, diversity and inclusion, employee engagement, leadership gaps, governance, corporate social responsibility and supply chain due diligence, including risk and compliance. She's been called a corporate medicine woman with keen insight and an ability to catalyze radical transformation.

Stephanie knows when to coach, when to ask the right questions and when to lend a consultative approach that gives her clients a competitive edge.

Stephanie is a licensed attorney in New York, holds a Juris Doctorate, and a bachelor's degree in communications and international relations from Boston University. Her early work in corporate responsibility and sustainability was followed by a career in corporate litigation at Davis Polk. Although she was naturally an intuitive counselor for years before, Stephanie became a certified professional coach in 2007 and continued to expand her expertise as a certified energy medicine practitioner, certified mediator, certified wellness, business and executive coach and leadership development and communications expert. She is a provider of The Leadership Circle Profile, a state of the art 360 tool which assesses well-known leadership competencies and styles and lends an integrative understanding of the leader's capacity for creative, adaptive and situationally appropriate responses to the leadership challenges that are prevalent in today's VUCA environment. (VUCA = volatile, uncertain, complex and ambiguous).

Stephanie combines 13 years as a certified coaching professional with more than two decades of off the beaten path experience in studying indigenous wisdom, shamanism and practicing mindfulness to help leaders uncover and align with purpose. Her clients get to the heart of the matter quickly, see the story beneath the story, and co-create rapid lasting breakthroughs that elevate and permanently transform challenges into opportunities.

Volunteer:

Stephanie currently serves on the Board of Directors of the non-profit, Dream Change, is Co-Chair of the American Bar Association's Environmental Justice Committee, is an active member in the Business Law Section's Committee on Corporate Responsibility and serves as strategic advisor to several other non-profits.

Author & Creator

She is the author of the forthcoming book "The Future of Resilient Leadership", is a keynote speaker, and the creator of The Catalyst Map™ The Sustainability Mindset Shift™ and Conscious Influence Method™ -among other proprietary systems.

Some Engagements:

A sample of client's she's worked with or where her clients worked include, Pfizer, ABInBev, Proskauer Rose, JP Morgan, Emag Solutions, Oracle, EY, Thompson Reuters, Mastercard, Toppan Merrill, Amundi, and The Open Society Institute.