ABOUT STEPHANIE TRAGER

Stephanie Trager is transformational catalyst, futurist, advocate for evolutionary consciousness, peak wellness, soul mastery, living systems and activating future human potential. She's a former practicing attorney, founder of Intentional Paradigms, evolutionary coach, medicine woman and guide who brings a dynamic style combining 30+ years of off the beaten path experience and an eclectic mix of training and education.

Using the power of her captivating story Stephanie inspires, teaches and motivates, delivering compelling and relatable presentations and keynotes for the impact eco-system, for leadership retreats, companies, conferences, meetings, and online and offline events. She serves as a guest on panels and is an intuitive thoughtful moderator. Stephanie has delivered hundreds of workshops, led retreats, and can adopt her speaking style and content to meet your venue and audience needs. Her perspectives are timely and bound to engage your audience and inspire action.

She was founding member of a corporate sustainability law firm and law school in the 1990's, helped preserve the last remaining ancient stands of unprotected Redwood forests, was a treesitter, grassroots organizer, and learned that trees speak and they cry sap. Sprinkled in was a seven year stint in corporate litigation at Davis Polk.

Stephanie has authored articles on the Human Right to a Clean Environment, was Chair of the ABA Environmental Justice Committee, inspired and helped form the first trial monitoring committee in the US to thwart judicial corruption, is a board member of Dream Change, worked on Holocaust Reparations initiatives, Indigenous Land Repatriation projects, and has been immersed in the impact investing space helping catalysts tap into higher purpose and deploy their capital in alignment with not only their values but our collective highest potential.

Author and host of Catalyst Talks Podcast, Stephanie is currently studying, speaking and writing on 'Living Systems and What Ancient Ecosystems and Forests Have to Teach Us About Our Future Potential.'

The Inner Work of Impact Explores the nexus between our inner work and our outer impact as change agents. These are bespoke sessions customized around the IWI Principles which at the core involve expanding our aperture of perception so we may remember who we really are so we can do the work (impact) we're really here to do. For more than two decades Stephanie has been coaching and developing modalities on physical vitality, mental freedom, emotional peace, aligned business, conscious communication, and spiritual expansion for the purpose of connecting our inner evolution to our collective future potential to thrive in coherence with ourselves, each other and nature. This Keynote, session or talk will take you where you haven't gone before.

The Art of Influence for Change Agents We are always influencing our outcomes whether positively or negatively – sometimes neutrally. In this session Stephanie shares the Conscious Influence modality and offers participants and the audience an opportunity to embody the essence and feel the impact of 'The Vocabulary of Increase,' 'Influence Visioning and Matter Manipulating' and 'Non-linear multidimensional seeing.' She takes these otherwise complex concepts and shares a step by step daily practice for leveraging the power of conscious influence to transform yourself while bringing others on board with your vision.

What Ancient Forests Have to Teach Us About Our Future Human Potential As a student of indigenous and earth based wisdoms, for three decades, and a nature communicator for more than 40 years, Stephanie has studied and worked with various Indigenous groups from the Navajo to the Kogi, the Achuar, Warani, and Quechua, and has been initiated as an Earthkeeper in the shamanic tradition by the Q'ero from the Andes in Peru. From her time living in the Ancient Redwood forests she has been tapped into the intelligence of ancient living ecosystems and in this talk she activates new possibilities, perspectives and important connections to inspire innovation around our lives as quantum creators of future (now) potentials - merging ancient and modern technologies.

Dismantling the 'Not Enough' Program Synergizing innate wisdom with positive psychology, neuroscience, NLP, herbalism, shamanism, activism, and alternative ancient practices, in this session Stephanie brings groups and audiences to the 'field' of infinite possibility with a unique framework that articulates how old identities based on scarcity, individually and collectively, keep us stuck creating and living from old programs imbued with the 'not enough' template. When we move into purpose as heart centered creators we think we have found the holy grail yet old identity traps and the 'not good enough' imprint still haunt us as our purpose becomes part of the program. When we lean into Higher Purpose and innerstand how to create as a quantum creator we are able to tap into ours and humanities thriving future potential.
